

Relationships with regional NGOs and government for SDG

The Women University of Azad Jammu and Kashmir (WUAJ&K) Bagh directly participates with government and non-government organizations (NGOs) in SDG policy development, including identifying problems and challenges and developing policies and strategies.

A few examples of relationships with NGOs are as follows:

Alkhidmat Foundation Pakistan

Faculty members from WUAJK&K Bagh play a key role in the policy-making process for Aghosh Alkhidmat Bagh, a project by the Alkhidmat Foundation Pakistan dedicated to providing humanitarian services to orphans. Dr. Anees Abbasi, a lecturer in the Department of Computer Science and Information Technology and a member of the management committee of Agosh Alkhadmat Bagh, is particularly involved in policy-making and administration. (Evidence at Annex. I)

Aljiza Welfare Foundation for Disabled Persons

ALJIZA Welfare Foundation is a local organization for disabled persons. Several faculty members of WUAJK&K Bagh are contributing to the ALJIZA welfare foundation, which gives humanitarian services to disabled persons. Dr. Abdul Muteen, Assistant Professor of the Department of Economics, and Mr. Asif, an employee of WUAJ&K, regularly participate in the policy-making and administration of this organization. (Evidence at Annex. II)

Mental Health Screening Camp at Aghosh Alkhidmat Trust

BS Psychology students and teachers from WUAJ&K organized a mental health screening camp (April 7, 2023) at Aghosh Alkhidmat Trust in Bagh. This initiative aimed to provide essential mental health services to the community, offering screenings, assessments, and support to needy individuals.

The camp was a collaborative effort, combining the students' academic knowledge with the teachers' expertise to positively impact the participants' mental well-being. The event reflected the university's commitment to community service and the importance of relationships with NGOs. (Evidence at Annex. III)

Life Welfare Society Bagh

Life Welfare Society, a local non-governmental organization, organized an eye screening camp at the School of Special Education, providing essential eye care services to students with special needs. The camp aimed to identify and address vision-related issues, ensuring that the students receive the necessary treatment and support. Mr. Asif, representing the university, coordinated with the NGO to facilitate this initiative, highlighting the collaborative efforts between the educational institution and the NGO in promoting the community's well-being. The event underscored the society's dedication to improving the quality of life for individuals with special needs.

Blood Donation camp in Bagh

On September 12, 2023, WUAJ&K coordinated with local NGO ALJIZA to organize a blood donation camp. Employees and students of WUAJ&K are actively involved with the blood donation camp at ALJIZA organization, playing a vital role in serving humanity by creating awareness and motivating individuals to donate blood. This campaign focuses on helping patients suffering from blood-related diseases by ensuring a steady supply of blood, which is essential for life. (Evidence at Annex. V)
