

1.4.4. Policy Addressing Poverty

The Women University of Azad Jammu and Kashmir actively participates in policy-making at the local, regional, and national levels to implement programs and policies aimed at reducing poverty in all its dimensions. A few examples of University participation in policy-making of different organizations that are contributing to ending poverty are as follows:

Al-Khidmat Foundation Pakistan

The Al-Khidmat Foundation Pakistan is one of the leading non-profit organizations dedicated to providing humanitarian services, charity work, and social welfare initiatives to alleviate poverty in Pakistan. The university's faculty members are actively involved in the organization on a volunteer basis and contribute to its policy-making efforts aimed at eradicating poverty in the country. \(Annex. I\)

Aghosh Pakistan

Aghosh is a project of the Al-Khidmat Foundation Pakistan, dedicated to providing education and healthcare facilities for orphan children. The faculty member of the University has been serving this organization on a volunteer basis for several years, contributing to the policy-making process to address education and health-related issues affecting orphans, and thus plays a role in alleviating the poverty of these children. \(Annex. II\)

Al-Jiza Welfare Trust

Al-Jiza is a local-level welfare trust dedicated to the welfare of individuals with disabilities, enabling them to lead a normal life despite their condition, through the provision of technical skills, basic education, and health services. The university's faculty members are actively contributing to the trust, and monthly visits are arranged for technical support, education, and policy-making purposes within this trust. [\(Annex.
